TASMANIA’S WINE ROUTES 2011

www.winetasmnia.com.au
Welcome to the 2011 edition of Tasmania’s Wine Routes

Tasmania’s naturally elegant wines are made from grapes grown in climates similar to much-celebrated European wine regions – with mild summers and long autumn days that slowly ripen the grapes, providing elegance and intensity of flavour.

Tasmania’s boutique yet burgeoning wine industry boasts seven distinct wine growing areas, which have been divided into four wine experiences to assist visitors to the island state – the north (known as the Tamar Valley Wine Route), the south, the east coast and the north west coast. All are within easy reach of major centres or are located en route to some of Tasmania’s iconic attractions.

The cellar door experience is as diverse as the range of wine styles, from converted heritage stables to ultra-modern cellar door restaurants.

Producers are usually on hand and happy to share their passion for their wines, distinctly shaped by Tasmania’s climate and soils.

As you will see from maps included in this brochure and from the Tasmanian Wine Routes website www.winetasmania.com.au you can easily tour the Tasmanian wineries by car or on a guided tour.

Take your time to explore the varied wines of the Tamar Valley in northern Tasmania or take an easy drive from Hobart to the Derwent, Coal River and Huon valleys. There are also award-winning vineyards waiting en route to Cradle Mountain in the north-west or en route to Freycinet and Wineglass Bay on the sunny east coast.
This unique island state now produces elegant cool climate wines such as Pinot Noir, sparkling wines, Riesling, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc, Cabernet Sauvignon and Pinot Gris.

Tasmania enjoys a national and international reputation as a leading producer of some of Australia’s premium wines, winning high praise and plenty of trophies from wine judges and critics alike.

So relax and rejuvenate your senses with a visit to one or more of Tasmania’s wine areas...

Wine Tasmania encourages responsible consumption of alcohol and recommends the following: don’t drink on an empty stomach, drink plenty of water, use spittoons and if you plan to drive – choose a designated driver or take a guided wine route tour.

History

Tasmania’s first vineyard was planted by Bartholomew Broughton in 1823 at Prospect Farm in New Town. It followed those established by the early colonists in Sydney, which are now buried under high-rise car parks and buildings.

Vine cuttings from Tasmania produced the first recorded vines in the Hunter Valley in 1832 and the first vineyards in both Victoria and South Australia. So Tasmania can legitimately claim to be the oldest producing wine region in the country!

By the mid 1800s, Tasmania had commercial vineyards at Moonah and New Town in Hobart, Campania in the south of the state, the lower Tamar at Windermere in the north and around Swansea, Falmouth and Port Arthur on the east coast. And, a few years ago, Australia’s oldest-known bottles of sparkling wine (many still partly full) were found in a long-forgotten cellar on a property adjoining the original New Town vineyard.

But the good times for the early Tasmanian industry didn’t last and the warmer wine producing regions took over. In the mid-1800s, vineyard workers were lured away to the Victorian gold rushes and bans on the production of spirits meant Tasmania could no longer produce fortified ports and sherries, Australia’s and Britain’s most popular drops of the day.

Apart from an eccentric Italian who tried to grow vines on rugged Maria Island under the label Mouton Rothschild, vineyards disappeared from the state and by the late 1800s vineyards had been transformed into apple orchards.

The revival came in 1956 when Jean Miguet, son of a winemaking family in Provence, France, planted a vineyard named La Provence (now Providence) at Lalla, east of Launceston. Another migrant, Claudio Alcorso, followed his lead and established Moorilla Estate in 1958.

As Australian drinking habits swung from ports and sherries towards table wines in the late 1960s and ‘70s, Tasmania’s wine industry started to expand.

Graham Wiltshire planted his small Heemskerk vineyard at Legana on the Tamar in 1966 and the early ‘70s saw the establishment of Pipers Brook Vineyard, Meadowbank, Stoney, Glen Ayr, Bream Creek, Craigie Knowe, Freycinet and Panorama, and the expansion of Heemskerk and Moorilla.

Cabernet was then king, before a swing to Pinot Noir in the late ‘80s and ‘90s. Tasmania’s sparkling future was set in 1989 when Heemskerk and the French Champagne house, Roederer, introduced renowned sparkling wine brand, Jansz.

In 1986, there were 47ha of vines producing 154 tonnes of fruit. Today, there are some 1550ha planted in 234 individual vineyards which produced around 7,000 tonnes of fruit last vintage.

Whatever your preference, you’ll find plenty of choice and quality as you explore Tasmania’s wine routes.
Tour the picturesque Tamar Valley Wine Route following the distinctive Wine Routes signs
The seductive Tamar River meanders for 58 kilometres through the fertile Tamar Valley with vineyards, orchards, pastures and forests, from the boutique-chic regional city of Launceston, and then north to the turquoise sea and diamond sands of Bass Strait.

The Tamar Valley area – the oldest wine region in Tasmania – is beautifully crowded with more than 20 cellar doors located along the wine route, stretching from Launceston to Rowella, east to Pipers River and south to Relbia.

It’s a voyage of discovery from the rustic to the sophisticated, each vineyard with its own unique story – often to be told by the winemakers themselves, whose cool climate wines attract worldwide attention, not because they seek it, but because they’ve earned it.

Some of the best sparkling wine, Riesling, Pinot Noir and Sauvignon Blanc in Australia come from this area of stunning natural beauty.

While touring this wine growing area, make sure you sample some of the region’s fresh and seasonal produce at nationally recognised local cafes and restaurants.

Things to see and do:

Hobart is a city of spinnakers, sandstone and sunshine – a place that combines a rich colonial past with contemporary art and culture; a place that has all the attractions of a state capital, wrapped up in a friendly, accessible, people-sized city. Hobart is a blend of charm and elegance; of heritage and sophistication; of spirit and style.

The southern wine regions surrounding Hobart are rich with a variety of landscapes and experiences. Ranging from architecturally designed, ultra modern restaurants to quaint heritage-listed cottages, these local cellar doors are well worth the visit.

From the Tasman Bridge, you’re just a few minutes from the start of the Coal River Valley wine region and Richmond historic village.

Heading south to the rich fruit growing region of the Huon Valley and bountiful Channel region you can sample the vintages at Australia’s southernmost vineyards.

Or wind your way north-west to the highlands, following the River Derwent to its source, calling into the Derwent Valley’s cellar doors on your way to catching a trout.

No matter the direction, Hobart is the perfect base to venture out to experience all the attractions in the southern wine region.

Things to see and do:

- MONA is the Museum of Old and New Art (opening Jan 2011), displayed in a secular temple at Moorilla Estate: 6,000 square metres of artwork that will batter your beliefs.

- Visit the awesome Tahune Airwalk where you can take a stroll above the riverside forest canopy, admiring the mountains of the nearby World Heritage Area from a dramatic cantilevered platform.

- Cruise the pristine southern waterways and sample regional cuisine at Peppermint Bay at Woodbridge.

- Each Saturday hosts Australia’s best outdoor market on Salamanca Place – bargains and buskers, art and craft, food and wine, trash and treasure.

- Visit the pinnacle of spectacular Mt Wellington and see the entire city and its harbour below.

- Experience Hobart’s many food and wine precincts including the scenic waterfront, historic Battery Point, Salamanca Place and North Hobart.

- Immerse yourself in the power of Port Arthur, its convict buildings, gardens, tours and captivating tales – an essential Tasmanian experience.

Coal River Valley Wine Region

Come and treat yourself to the superb wines and food in the Coal River Valley Wine Region. Only a 20 minute scenic drive from the city, the region has the largest concentration of vineyards in southern Tasmania.

Step back in time with a visit to Richmond, an historic village nestled in the rolling hills of the valley. In Richmond, Tasmania’s convict past seems very close. Quaint Georgian cottages line the streets, and mellow sandstone glows in the sun. An amazing number of beautiful old stone buildings constructed by convict labour have stood the test of time.

Exploring Richmond and the Coal River Valley is a delight. Savour the locally produced fine wines, visit the art galleries and antique shops, and be tempted by the bakery and lolly shops. Try the succulent fresh local oysters from the Pittwater estuary.

There’s lots of colonial accommodation in the Richmond area, along with an historic country pub, restaurants, and cafes. Why not combine your visit with a local festival, a game of golf at the championship standard golf courses, or an international cricket match at Bellerive Oval?

“Tasmania’s cool climate and the small production, meticulously high quality philosophy has the State already gaining a very favourable international reputation for aromatic white wines, Pinot Noir and, of course sparkling wines.”

Penny Boothman,
Wine 100 Magazine.
From sea to summit and from sun to snow, Tasmania offers a treasure trove of unforgettable adventures and chances for pampered self-indulgence that is second to none.

The North West Wine Region is home to the breathtaking Cradle Mountain, spectacular Bass Strait and the rich red soils and lush green pastures that create a landscape of rural charm around lesser-known towns and secret seaside villages. These secrets await the discerning visitor with a taste for the very best of local produce, an appetite for the genuine, and who prefers not just to follow fashion, but to lead it. This is Tasmania’s own market garden – a land of milk and honey, and of olive oil, handmade chocolates, hops and beers, wines and whiskies.

In this vivid landscape, often framed by the brilliant blue of the sea, time is measured by the seasons. An oasis in the modern world, here is a land of plenty that still has plenty of time for people. So make time to stop and visit the boutique wineries for tasting and sales - meet the winemakers and growers and satisfy your taste for the very best.

North West Wine Route

Tasmania’s wines are closest in style to those of regions such naturally elegant. Pinot noir, chardonnay and sauvignon blanc all thrive here, sparkling wines are outstanding and cabernet sauvignon can be stellar in warmer years.”
