Welcome to the 2009/10 edition of Tasmania’s Wine Routes

Tasmania’s naturally elegant wines are made from grapes grown in climates similar to the much-celebrated European experience - with mild summers and long autumn days that ripen the grapes slowly.

Tasmania’s boutique yet burgeoning wine industry boasts four distinct wines routes – the north, the south, the east coast and the north west coast. All are within easy reach of major centres or en route to some of Tasmania’s iconic attractions.

The cellar door experience is as diverse as the range of wine styles, from converted heritage stables to ultra-modern cellar door restaurants.

Producers are usually on-hand and happy to share their passion for their grapes and finished wines, distinctly shaped by Tasmania’s climate and soil.

As you will see from maps included in this brochure and from the Wine Tasmania website www.winetasmania.com.au you can tour the Tasmanian Wine Route easily by car or on a guided full or half-day tour.

Take your time to explore the varied wines of the Tamar Valley in northern Tasmania or take an easy drive from Hobart to the Derwent, Coal River and Huon Valleys. There are also award-winning vineyards waiting en route to Cradle Mountain in the north-west or Freycinet and Wineglass Bay on the sunny east coast.

Tasmania’s first vineyard was planted at the Hobart suburb of New Town in 1821. Twenty seven years later, its white wine won an award at the Paris Exhibition.
This special island state now produces elegant cool-climate wines such as Pinot Noir, Riesling, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc, Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Gris and Sparkling Wines.

Tasmania enjoys a national and international reputation as a leading producer of some of Australia’s premium wines, winning high praise and plenty of trophies from wine judges and critics alike.

So relax and rejuvenate your senses with a visit to one or more of Tasmania’s wine regions...

Wine Industry Tasmania encourages the responsible consumption of alcohol and recommends the following: don’t drink on an empty stomach, drink plenty of water, use spittoons and if you plan to drive, choose a designated driver or take a guided wine route tour.
Tasmanian Wine Industry

Tasmania’s first vineyard was planted by Bartolemew Broughton in 1823 at Prospect Farm in New Town. It followed those established by the early colonists in Sydney which are now buried under high-rise carparks and buildings.

Vine cuttings in Tasmania sourced the first recorded vines in the Hunter Valley in 1832 and the first vineyards in both Victoria and South Australia. So, Tasmania can legitimately claim to be the oldest producing wine region in the country.

By that time, Tasmania had commercial vineyards at Moonah and New Town in Hobart, Campania in the south of the state, the lower Tamar at Windermere in the north and around Swansea, Falmouth and Port Arthur on the East Coast. And, a few years ago, Australia’s oldest-known bottles of Sparkling Wine (many still partly full!) were found in a long-forgotten cellar on a property adjoining the original New Town vineyard.

But the good times for the early Tasmanian industry didn’t last and the warmer wine producing regions took over. In the mid-1800s, vineyard workers were lured away to the Victorian gold rushes and bans on the production of spirits meant Tasmania could no longer produce fortified ports and sherries, Australia’s and Britain’s most popular drops of the day.

Apart from an eccentric Italian who tried to grow vines on rugged Maria Island under the label Mouton Rothschild, vineyards disappeared from the state. By the late 1800s vineyards had been transformed to apple orchards.

The revival came in 1956 when Jean Miguet, son of a winemaking family in Provence, France, planted a vineyard named La Provence (now Providence) at Lalla, east of Launceston.
Another migrant, Claudio Alcorso, followed his lead and established Moorilla Estate in 1958. As Australian drinking habits swung from ports and sheries towards table wines in the late 1960s and ‘70s, Tasmania’s wine industry started to expand.

Graham Wiltshire planted his small Heemskerk vineyard at Legana on the Tamar in 1966 and the early 70s saw the establishment of Pipers Brook Vineyard, Meadowbank, Stoney, Glen Ayr, Bream Creek, Craigie Knowe, Freycinet and Panorama, and the expansion of Heemskerk and Moorilla.

Cabernet was then king, before a swing to Pinot Noir in the late ‘80s and ‘90s. Tasmania’s sparkling future was set in 1989 when Heemskerk and the French Champagne house, Roederer, introduced the first Methode Tasmanoise “Jansz.”

In 1986, there were 47ha of vines producing 154 tonnes of fruit. Today, there are some 1550ha in 265 individual vineyards which have produced a record vintage of 9628 tonnes in 2008.

Whatever your preference, you’ll find plenty of choice and quality as you explore Tasmania’s wine routes.

Arguably Australia’s most distinctive city, Tasmania’s capital Hobart, combines heritage charm and cultural diversity in a setting of exceptional beauty. It is a city of fishing boats, fish punts at the docks, and coffee under the sun-umbrellas where the famous Salamanca Market is held every Saturday.

Take a harbour cruise past square-rigged yachts, or drive to the summit of Mount Wellington for a bird’s eye view of the intricate pattern of islands and estuaries that reach out to the sea beyond.

The wine regions surrounding Hobart are rich with a variety of landscapes and experiences. Ranging from architecturally designed, ultra modern restaurants to quaint heritage-listed cottages, these local cellar doors are well worth the visit.

Stop to taste award-winning cool-climate wines en route to the colonial village of Richmond in the Coal River Valley, on your way to sampling some of the Huon and Channel regions’ mouth-watering fresh produce or on your way to catching a trout in the Derwent Valley.

Southern Wine Region

Things to see and do:

› Cruise the pristine southern waterways and sample regional cuisine at Peppermint Bay at Woodbridge.
› Taste the very best that Hobart has to offer with a visit to the Cadbury Chocolate Factory, the Cascade Brewery and Lark Distillery.
› Soar through the treetops and take in the spectacular views at the Tahune Airwalk.
› Immerse yourself in the power of Port Arthur, its convict buildings, gardens, tours and captivating tales.
› Take in the breathtaking panoramic views of Hobart and surrounds from the summit of spectacular Mt Wellington.
› Experience Hobart’s many food and wine precincts including the scenic waterfront, historic Battery Point, Salamanca Place and bustling North Hobart.
› Take a drive to the beautiful Derwent Valley and feed the fish at the Salmon Ponds, the southern hemisphere’s oldest trout hatchery.
Coal River Valley Wine Region

Come and treat yourself to the superb wines and food in the Coal River Valley Wine Region. Only a 20 minute scenic drive from the city, the region has the largest concentration of vineyards in southern Tasmania.

Step back in time with a visit to Richmond, an historic village nestled in the rolling hills of the valley. In Richmond, Tasmania’s convict past seems very close. Quaint Georgian cottages line the streets, and mellow sandstone glows in the sun. An amazing number of beautiful old stone buildings constructed by convict labour have stood the test of time.

Exploring Richmond and the Coal River Valley is a delight. Savour the locally produced fine wines, visit the art galleries and antique shops, and be tempted by the bakery and lolly shops. Try the succulent fresh local oysters from the Pittwater estuary.

There’s lots of colonial accommodation in the Richmond area, along with an historic country pub, restaurants, and cafes. Why not combine your visit with a local festival, a game of golf at the championship standard golf courses, or an international cricket match at Bellerive Oval.

Richmond & the Coal River Valley ... history, fine wines & other temptations.

Hobart is a signature Australian city. With its dramatic landscapes, charm from the past, and progressive personality, Tasmania’s capital has a distinct island style and enviable international profile.

View the unique city skyline shaped by Mount Wellington to the vastness of the River Derwent at its hem. This is nature’s gift to an authentic place that will leave you historically enriched, culturally charged and mentally refreshed.

There’s a sophisticated combination of old and new – from grand sandstone buildings and quaint villages to architecture that symbolises a new century.

Hobart is Australia’s colonial capital, preserving a past that has become its hallmark. It’s also one of the country’s greatest ‘self-contained’ cities from beaches to rainforests, museums to markets, gourmet outlets to maritime marvels.

While the city is compact it’s also big on quality and diversity. Exclusive boutiques have become the new fashion and design houses of Hobart with their unique creations and fine craftsmanship.

On the city’s fringe you’ll find suburbs that have become showcases for the true Tasmanian identity – free-spirited locals, preserved heritage, passion for produce and a seductive culture.

… so much to explore in such a compact city.

A number of cellar doors and vineyards are conveniently located along Tasmania’s East Coast, stretching from Orford to Bicheno. Call in and taste the full range of crisp, elegant cool-climate wines on offer.

Then, at the end of each day, relax and indulge in the freshest seafood, olives, walnuts and berries sourced from the region, washed down, once again with a glass of local award-winning wine.
